

URAC Offers Web Site Accreditation

Save to myBoK

The American Accreditation HealthCare Commission (URAC) released the nation's first independent accreditation program for health Web sites. The standards are based on ethical principles and designed for the accreditation of consumer-oriented, online health resources. URAC received input from Hi-Ethics, the Internet Healthcare Coalition, and numerous other groups in developing the standards manual. For more information, go to <http://webapps.urac.org/websiteaccreditation/default.htm>.

Source: Journal of AHIMA 72:9 (October 2001), p.24.

Driving the Power of Knowledge

Copyright 2022 by The American Health Information Management Association. All Rights Reserved.